DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to three different inventions, which include:

Group I, claim(s) 1-12, drawn to a convexo concave amplifying device/method that employs a flexible sheet to provide for amplification and measurement, of Figure 2.

Group II, claim(s) 13-33, drawn to a deformation sensing device/method that employs a deformable capsule and fluid to provide for amplification and measurement, of Figure 4.

Group III, claim(s) 26-33, drawn to deformation sensing device/method that employs a deformation sensing portions that employ light-type indicators.

The groups are different for the following:

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Group I, claim(s) 1-12, drawn to a convexo concave amplifying device/method that employs a flexible sheet to provide for amplification and measurement, of Figure 2.

Groups II and III, claim(s) 13-33, drawn to a deformation sensing device/method that employs a deformable capsule and fluid to provide for amplification and measurement, of Figure 4.

The following claim(s) are generic: none.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: The species of Figure 2 employs a flexible sheet, while the species of Figure 4 employs a capsule. The sheet is deemed to be a special technical feature in the species of Figure 2, while the capsule is deemed to be a special technical feature in the species of Figure 4.

While Groups II and III are directed to the same species, the two groups lack unity of invention as each of the groups employs different special technical features. Group II employs a capsule for measuring deformation, the capsule being deemed to be special. Group III is directed to a sensing device/method that employs a deformation sensing portions that employ light-type indicators, the light-type indicators being deemed to be a special technical feature.
